

LATE COMERS OFTEN WIN FINEST PRIZES

It Is Not Too Late To Enter The Contest--Very Little Work Has Been Done In Some Districts

You probably are regretting that you did not enter The Times-Dispatch contest when it was first announced. You wish you had the votes to your credit which you think some of the first entries have gained.

Why waste time in regrets? Don't envy a good candidate. Send in your nomination and be one.

It is always the case in a contest that some of the very best prizes are won by the later entries. The persons who come in after a contest is fairly started are those who have considered carefully before undertaking to win a prize, and who have decided that the rich awards are worth going after with a vim.

The contest manager says that those who come in late are always particularly welcome, for he knows that they are going to do something well worth while. They are not the kind who grow discouraged and drop out when the time is past over, thus losing all the work they have already done and leaving the field open to the more persevering.

A CANDIDATE'S DAY

Read the diary of an ideal candidate and model your campaign upon it: "After breakfast read The Times-Dispatch, especially that part which relates to the contest, as I find it is impossible to work intelligently unless I keep posted.

"Set out with the list made overnight of 'prospects' for the day.

"Gave a good talk to all my tradespeople—butter, baker, etc.—and showed them why they needed The Times-Dispatch as much as I needed the votes.

"Was surprised to find how willing they were to be persuaded. A few did not have the ready money to oblige me—have made a note to call again at the time they suggested as convenient for them.

"Met some acquaintances on the street car, and improved the opportunity by talking the contest to them. Found them interested and several gave me a subscription on the spot.

"Others asked me to see them about it later. Jotted down the names and addresses of these, so as to run no risk of forgetting them.

"Made some calls, and got the whole household interested in my campaign.

"At several houses they were taking the paper already, and supposed they could not help me. When I explained that a renewal counted votes for me, they were glad to make a payment in advance, especially so as the regular carrier would make his profit.

RULE IN REGARD TO VOTING

From this date all candidates, who have the votes to their credit, may cast for publication votes to the amount of 10,000 more than the leader on the previous day of publication. This rule means that if a leader in to-day's list has 10,000 votes, any candidate, who has the votes to his or her credit, may vote a sufficient number to run 10,000 over that amount, or a total of 20,000 votes. This rule gives any active candidate a chance to vote up among the leaders.

Write the Contest Manager, Room 413 Times-Dispatch Building, if your name is not on the list.

Votes Counted Only to 9 A. M. Friday
